Manager Commentary

The top contributors to performance year to date were Alphabet, Illumina and Novo Nordisk.

Alphabet reported another quarter of exceptional growth. In Q2, organic revenue grew 57% and operating margin almost doubled to 31%. This growth reflected the lapping of the impact of COVID-19, elevated consumer activity online, broad-based increases in advertiser spending and "excellent ongoing execution". Illumina is the leader in gene sequencing technology, ahead of competition in terms of cost and accuracy. Its clinical markets, including oncology, reproductive health and genetic disease testing, are expanding as reimbursement increases, patient awareness grows and more sequencing applications enter the clinic. Ramping population sequencing programs are contributing to the robust growth in the research business. Q2 revenue grew 78%. Novo Nordisk is the leader in the global diabetes and obesity markets with shares of 29% and 67% respectively. Wegovy, its once weekly injection obesity drug, that can reduce body weight by as much as 18%, had a very promising launch in June. It also initiated a Phase 3 programme for its compound semaglutide as a possible treatment for Alzheimer's.

The top detractors year to date were MarketAxess, Reckitt Benckiser and Fanuc.

MarketAxess is the leading electronic bond trading platform and a beneficiary of the secular trend of increasing penetration of electronic trading in global credit markets. Lower interest rate volatility in 2021 has temporarily put pressure on its volumes, revenues and market share and the stock has drifted off following a very strong performance in 2020. Reckitt Benckiser is the world's leading consumer health and hygiene company and benefits from secular trends such as the pressure on state-funded health and resulting increase in self-care, increased life expectancy, focus on well-being, and growing global population. Q2 results suffered from tough comparisons with the same period in 2020 when the business benefited from strong, pandemic-related demand for its hygiene products. Fanuc is a Japanese company that manufactures robots and pioneered the automation of machine tools and the development of computer numeric controls for factory automation. It is well-placed to benefit from increasing automation across industries, a trend accelerated by COVID-19. The stock, in tandem with the Nikkei index, has lagged a strong global equity market.
