Manager Commentary

The top contributors year to date were Alphabet, MarketAxess and Keyence.

Alphabet is a technology company increasingly entrenched in consumers' lives, with 10 assets that have over 1 billion users each. The company reported organic revenue growth of 14% in Q3, with improvement in advertising spend across geographies and most verticals. MarketAxess, the leading electronic bond trading platform, has been benefiting from increased volumes and continued penetration of electronic trading in the bond market. Q3 volumes grew 25% despite a return to a more normal, less volatile trading environment. Volumes on Open Trading, its proprietary all-to-all trading platform, grew 40% over last year. Keyence is a Japanese provider of a broad range of solutions for factory automation, which should see continued adoption driven by increasingly stringent quality requirements, employee safety regulation and demand for customisation.

The top detractors year to date were Ulta Beauty, Booking Holdings and CME Group.

Ulta Beauty, a US specialty retailer, was sold in Q1 and, in the light of positive market moves since then, remains a top detractor year-to-date. Booking Holdings, an online travel agency, has seen an unprecedented drop in hotel room nights, car rental days and flights booked due to disruption to travel caused by the COVID-19 pandemic. The company's financial strength and variable cost structure should enable it to withstand the near-term volatility and, as global travel recovers, the trend toward online bookings and integrated travel offerings should resume. CME Group operates a leading global derivatives exchange with unmatched product diversity and liquidity. The exceptional levels of pandemic-related market volatility across asset classes in Q1 were followed by weak trading volume in Q2 and Q3, exacerbated by the actions of the Fed and other government bodies to keep global interest rates low. CME's trading volumes were flat in the first nine months of 2020.
