Manager Commentary

The top contributors year to date were Alphabet, CME and Mastercard.

Alphabet performed well as technology stocks continued their strong run. Its diversified range of online properties continues to drive strong organic revenue growth. CME, the world's leading derivatives market place, reported record annual volume for 2019. Strong performance is generated by a broad based product offering, deep liquidity, price transparency and superior technology. Mastercard reported strong results for the fourth quarter. Growth continues to be driven by the secular shift from cash and cheques to electronic payments, expansion in services and strong new wins.

The main detractors year to date were Booking Holdings, UnitedHealth Group and Illumina.

Booking Holdings, the online travel company was hit due to concerns around the Coronavirus' impact on global travel. The UnitedHealth Group share price was under pressure as Bernie Sanders' campaign for the Democratic nomination appeared to gather momentum. His Medicare For All proposal would disrupt the private health insurance industry. Illumina's 2020 outlook disappointed investors. The genetic sequencing market continues to offer huge long-term potential as the cost of sequencing the human genome continues to fall.
